RUINS OF THE GREAT COLUMNS AT KARNAK, EGYPT

Karnak, is a modern village of Upper Egypt on the Nile, occupying part of the site of Thebes, renowned for its magnificent architectural remains. Chief among these is the great temple, 1200 ft. long and 330 ft. wide, with gigantic colonnades, colossal figures, sculptures of various kinds, in colored sandstone, marble, red and dark granite. The great hall was built by Sethos in 1340 B. C.
